

Georgia Long-Term Care Partnership

Overview

About two-thirds of all Americans will likely need some type of supportive services after age 65. The average rate for a semi-private room in a Georgia nursing home in 2023 was $261 a day, or $95,265 per year.

What is Long-Term Care?

Long-term care services may include medical, social, housekeeping and/or rehabilitation services needed for months or years to improve or maintain health and a level of personal independence. Such services are typically provided in nursing homes, a person's own home, or an assisted living facility.

What is the Georgia Long-Term Care Partnership?

The Georgia Long-Term Care (LTC) Partnership, administered by the Georgia Department of Community Health, is designed to reward Georgians who plan ahead by purchasing long-term care insurance. This insurance provides a Medicaid asset protection feature. This means that for every dollar a LTC Partnership policy pays out in benefits, a dollar of assets can be protected (disregarded) from the LTC Medicaid asset limit and Estate Recovery.

The Georgia LTC Partnership was established to:

- Provide incentives for individuals to insure against the costs of providing for their long-term care needs
- Provide a mechanism for individuals to qualify for coverage of the cost of their LTC needs under the Medicaid program without first exhausting their resources
- Provide counseling services through the Division of Aging Services of the Georgia Department of Human Services
- Alleviate the financial burden on the Georgia Medicaid program by encouraging pursuit of private initiatives

2023 Average Long-Term Care Costs in Georgia

- $261/day in a semi-private room in a nursing home.
- $275/day for a private room in a nursing home.
- $4,120/month for care in an Assisted Living Facility (for a one-bedroom unit).
- $170/day for a Home Health Aide.
- $157/day for homemaker services.
- $100/day for care in an Adult Day Care Center.
